Possible Lutterworth fire hall a hot topic

by Susan Grober

Improved service and cost efficiency will be the advantages if Lutterworth Township starts its own fire department, the Economic Development Committee has reported to council.

During Tuesday's meeting, council considered its options regarding funding and location of a possible new fire hall. Currently, Lutterworth purchases fire protection each year from Laxton, Digby and Longford, Somerville and Minden townships.

Councillor and committee chairman Maurice Boyd presented the report, which was met with enthusiasm by fellow council members.

Councillor Lisa Mercer said the plan for a fire hall is long overdue. "I realize it's a lot of money, but we're throwing an awful lot of money out the window paying for fire calls from Laxton, Digby and Longford, Somerville, and Minden."

However, she questioned the feasibility of a committee suggestion to raise funds by requesting donations.

"If people want something bad enough, they'll support it," said Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon.

"But a lot of people don't want it," said Mercer. When she campaigned during the last municipal election, many residents told Mercer they oppose the idea of starting a fire department.

Boyd suggested costs could be cut in the beginning if the township doesn't purchase too much expensive equipment recommended in a Fire Marshall's report. "We don't have to start with a pumper. A township of this size can't afford it."

Still, council agreed a central fire department would be more efficient than receiving protection from three departments outside the township.

"This is Russian roulette fire protection that we've got now," said Reeve Carol Puffer.

Puffer requested that figures be gathered to see how many fire calls, and how many cost increases, have been incurred by the township over the past five years.

She also noted that Lutterworth could bring in revenue by selling fire protection to other townships.

Council agreed it will be difficult to determine a central location for a fire hall without upsetting some members of the community who will want it closer to their properties.

The idea of moving the fire hall into the present municipal garage near the township office on Highway 35 was briefly kicked around by council. Then a new township office would be built at the industrial park on Highway 121.

Council was wary of the possible expense of this move. But Puffer said it could have some merit because a grant is available for renewing a township building, and the garage must be enlarged anyway to allow for a new grader. The present township building could then be leased.

In the meantime, council considered its draft fire protection agreements from Laxton, Somerville and Minden for next year, all three of which have raised in cost. Council voted to enter into the fire agreements, "as if we have any option," said Puffer.

BOE to request Conway's support

The Haliburton County Board of Education is planning to call on former education minister Sean Conway to help them lobby the new Ontario government for capital funding.

Haliburton's Director of Education, Stuart Baker, told The Times last week that the Board will ask Conway to meet with Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis Drainville and provide background on the local school accomodation crisis.

Conway served as the Minister of Education in the Liberal government until last month's election when the New Democratic Party scored a sweeping victory.

Although his party lost power, Conway kept his seat as an MPP for Renfrew.

While serving as minister, Conway met with members of the board of education on several occasions to hear their concerns about the county's need for capital funding.

Because Conway agreed with the board's need for funding, Baker says he will be asked to pass his insights on to Drainville.

BIA supports return of Ride for Sight

"I can't imagine anyone not wanting it," says member Harry Pye

Minden's downtown business owners support the return of Ride for Sight to the village next summer.

At last Monday's meeting of the Business Improvement Area (BIA) the members agreed to send a letter to council expressing their opinion on the event.

Minden has not yet been approached by Ride organizers about hosting the event, but co-ordinator Syd Collier recently said he wants to talk with council at this Thursday's meeting.

It was restaraunt owner Harry Pye who suggested sending a letter to council in support of the Ride's return.

"We're business owners who benefit from the Ride for Sight," said Pye. "We should tell (council) where we stand."

In discussions with four BIA members who were not at the meeting, chairman Lewis Stevens said two were adamantly in favour of the Ride's return and two were adamantly opposed.

Shirley Walker, representing Stedman's, told the members that proposal is not as easy to support as it once was.

Water levels may be included in Official Plan

by Susan Wilson

The two sides of the water levels debate staked out their time-honoured positions once again at a public meeting in the Haliburton Legion Hall on Friday, September 28th. Unfortunately, for an event that was billed as a Public Information Symposium, there were few members of the general public there to hear them or to ask questions.

The meeting began with an introduction by Bill Davis, reeve of Dysart et alia and chairman of the Haliburton Highlands Water Management Advisory Committee (HHWMAC), who acted as moderator for the afternoon. Davis pointed out that HHWMAC has been "revitalized" in the past few months with new members (particularly from the new Trent-Severn Reservoir Lakes Council) and had brought forward new terms of reference which have been approved by County Council. Davis reported that these terms of reference have put water management on the county's political agenda and HHWMAC hopes to see the subject included in the county's official plan.

Davis then introduced presentations from Bill Brown, president of the Trent-Severn Reservoir Lakes Council (TSRLC); Stan Flemming, Fish and Wildlife Supervisor for the Minden District of the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR); Maurice Lewis, Director of Conservation Authorities and Water Management Branch of the MNR; John Lewis, Superintendent of the Trent-Severn Waterway (TSW); and Mac Ellis, Haliburton Area Manager of the TSW.

Nothing in their talks was new to those who have followed the issue. The TSRLC, representing the reservoir lakes in Haliburton, Victoria, and Peterborough Counties, regards the 1905 Order-in-Council, which placed control of the water in federal jurisdiction, as anachronistic. They want it scrapped and replaced with a new agreement which provides for a more equitable distribution of suffering between the reservoir lakes and the Trent Canal during dry years.

The TSRLC sees the problem as a political one. "Our problem isn't with the TSW; it's with their bosses," said Brown. "The fundamental inequity remains in spite of TSW improvements. The federal government has to acknowledge the legitimacy of the needs of the reservoir lakes. What we want is a fundamental restructuring. We want a voice."

The TSW, part of the Parks Service of the federal Ministry of the Environment, maintains that the Order-in-Council cannot be changed. They see the question solely in terms of managing the current water supply as carefully as possible in order to satisfy as many people as possible, given that the needs of the canal come first and that there isn't enough water storage capacity in the system to keep everyone happy.

"We work closely with over 100 associations, agencies, organizations, and groups," said John Lewis, "plus seven federal MPs and 11 provincial MPPs. We treat Haliburton no differently than any other part of the system. If we have failed, it is in the area of information and education. We probably haven't pointed out the complexity of managing the system."

Lewis also fell back on historical arguments to defend his position. "Lakes in this area have always served as reservoir lakes, there's always been a drawdown," he said. "What we have done is improved how the drawdown is managed to minimize the impact."

The presentations were followed by a question-and-answer session. Most of the questions were directed to John Lewis.

Responding to Al Ferguson of Drag Lake and a member of the TSRLC, Lewis acknowledged that there has been an increase in population and economic development in the reservoir areas in the 85 years since the Order-in-Council was passed. Accordingly, Lewis said, the TSW has changed its operations in the last 15 years and takes water only when it is absolutely required.

To a supplementary question on reservoir capacity, Lewis said that, since the TSW can get all the water it needs from the reservoir lakes, creating more capacity is not one of its objectives. "But we're prepared to work with HHWMAC to study increasing storage capacity, if that is what they want," he said.

When asked how the TSW determines its needs, Lewis replied that it must maintain six-foot water levels above the locks sills. Only when prodded by the questioner did he acknowledge that there are "certain minimum flow locations" which play an important role in TSW decisions about how much water to release from the reservoir lakes.

(Later on in the meeting, Lewis also agreed that the historic water level above the lock sills is six feet only in the 16 locks from Rosedale to the north end of Peterborough; the level is actually eight feet in the 19 locks from the south end of Peterborough to Trenton.)

Another questioner asked what the effect of sewage treatment at Peterborough is on the system and whether up-grading the water treatment plants would affect how the water is managed. Lewis replied that the water has to be kept moving to keep it fresh, then turned the question over to his second-in-command, Fred Alyea.

"Up-grading systems helps water quality," said Alyea, "but I don't know if it would make it possible to reduce flows permanently."

TSRLC president Bill Brown was called on to clarify what he meant by "more equitable distribution". Brown replied that it means that the people along the canal would have to put up with less water in lean years. "In the key months, May through early September, the system seems to be driven by flow rates according to operational guidelines that have been arrived at over the years," he said. "Can the southern end do with less? I believe it can."

John Lewis, Superintendent of the Trent-Severn Waterway, was among the speakers who addressed the public information symposium presented by the Haliburton Highlands Water Management Advisory Committee on September 28, at the Haliburton Legion.

Increases irk Snowdon

by Susan Grober

Some Snowdon councillors feel burned by ever-increasing rates for fire protection from Somerville Township.

During Monday's meeting, council discussed a draft fire protection agreement from Somerville for 1991.

The basic standby fee agreement will increase 14 per cent, from $3,500 to $4,000.

An extended six month agreement for Somerville to take over protection of the Irondale and Highway 503 areas (which Glamorgan Township dropped earlier this year) will jump 100 per cent, from $1,000 to $2,000.

"That's an outrageous cost for six months," said Councillor Ron Burk.

The fee covering the first two hours of a call will increase 25 per cent, from $200 to $250. Each hour thereafter will cost 17 per cent more, from $150 to $175.

Conciliation meeting moved to Oct. 24

Last week's conciliation meeting between Minden township and the county's ambulance employees has been re-scheduled until Oct. 24.

The meeting was postponed by the provincially-appointed conciliator due to prior commitments.

The township and the employees' are seeking a resolution to the dead-locked negotiations for the employees' first contract.

Contract talks between the two parties broke off in August when the township left the bargaining table after the two sides failed to strike an agreement.

According to union officials the employees and the township still have seven issues left to resolve, including wages.

Dysart updates its Official Plan policies

Environment is the key issue

by Susan Grober

Environment was the main concern expressed by the more than 100 people who reviewed recommendations to update Dysart et al's Official Plan at an open house held Saturday.

Municipal planner Jody Ainsworth and planning consultant Jim Dyment were on hand to present a summary of suggestions to update policies on development within Haliburton Village, in rural areas, and along shoreline areas. Recommendations to clear up problems with existing policies on condominium development and servicing were reviewed. And a proposed policy to determine a lake's capacity for development was also discussed.

Dysart originally adopted its Official Plan in 1973, and it has been amended since that time. A formal public meeting will be held next spring before any of these recommendations are considered by council. But Ainsworth would like to see another informal open house before that time to clear up any problems property owners may have.

Ainsworth was pleased with the turnout of concerned citizens. "It was nice to see so many people. They were predominantly cottagers, which was what we were looking for. It's good that we've reached them."

The first recommendation to date is to concentrate residential growth in the village. Boundaries of the village, which are now just roughly estimated, would be established on 3,300 acres of property within lots 10 through 20, in concessions seven, eight, and nine. This would expand the present limits.

Also, building height in the village would be limited to three stories, with future development depending on the availability of sewage disposal.

To help preserve shorelines, it is recommended that no buildings be permitted on the waterfront, and that shorelines be maintained in a natural state.

A single designation would be provided for residential zones in shoreline areas, with larger lot sizes permitted in areas of steep slopes, shallow soils, or water access only. A separate designation would also be established for commercial development in shoreline areas.

Lake capacity policies are recommended in the summary, which states "the quality of lakes should not be permitted to deteriorate." Such policies would establish a maximum 10 per cent increase in phosphorous concentrations as biological carrying capacity, and four acres per unit as recreational carrying capacity.

The Dillon model, which is accepted by the Ontario Municipal Board, would be used to assess the ability of a lake to withstand the impacts of additional development. Any development within 150 metres and within the same watershed of a water body would be deemed to have an impact and therefore be subject to these policies.

John Puffer, president of the Lake Kashagawigamog property owners association, expressed enthusiasm over this proposal to protect lake quality. "I'm sure it will be a lot better," he said.

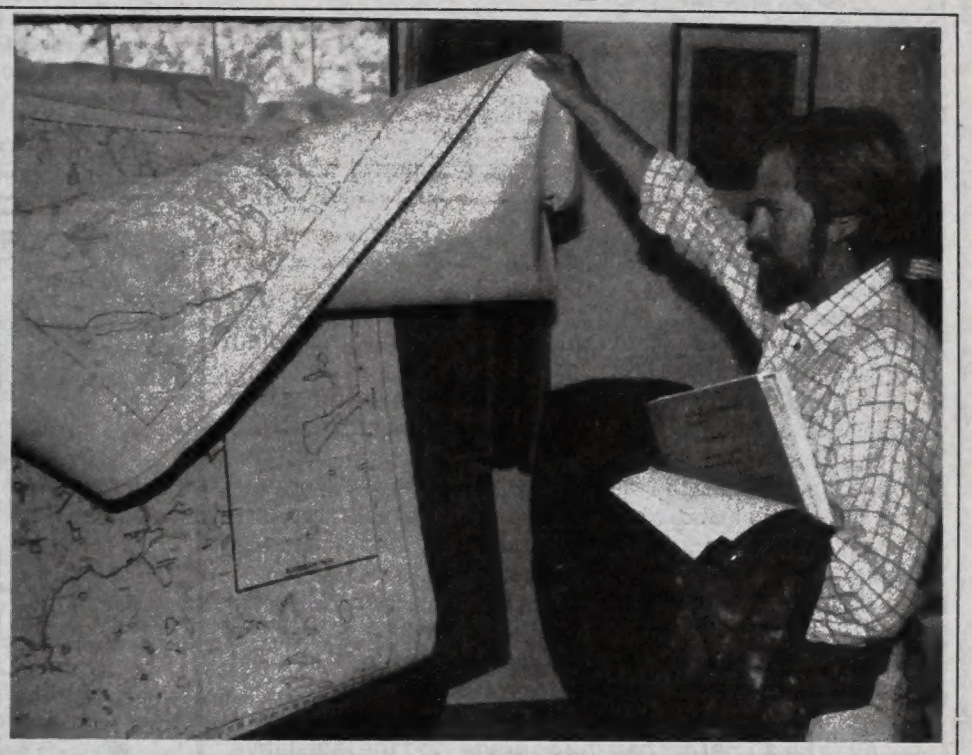
However, Puffer asked why Dysart couldn't undertake a project to study all the lakes in the municipality. "We're spending a lot of money on other things, so why not look at that as a possibility?"

Dyment explained this would not be economically feasible. "We simply can't test all the lakes. It's a quarter of a million dollars work."

Those who want to develop on a lake will be responsible for doing the study, Dyment added. "But if nobody develops a lake, the study doesn't have to be done"

Key factors in preserving lake water quality are the number of people who reside by a lake, and the amount of time they spend there, he told cottagers. These must be considered when testing water quality.

As for development in rural areas, it is recommended that the present minimum lot size of 50 acres be reduced for residential lots. Also, new residential lots wouldn't be permitted in isolated areas not serviced by school bussing or snow plowing. Also, industrial and commercial uses would be allowed where they do not conflict with residential uses and lakeshore areas.



Lake Kashagawigamog property owner Glen Carter was one of more than 100 people who attended last Saturday's Dysart Official Plan update open house.

Recommended policy would allow more condos in Dysart

by Susan Grober

Condominium developments on private services outside Haliburton Village would be permitted under recommended policy changes to Dysart's Official Plan.

A summary of recommendations to date drafted by planning consultant Jim Dyment were presented at an open house held last Saturday at the council chambers. Because of a number of problems with the existing Official Plan regarding condominium development and servicing, recommendations for change have been long overdue.

It's not clear from the Official Plan whether condominiums on private services are permitted in areas outside Haliburton Village. In the past, the township has permitted condominiums in hamlet areas on public services and within resort areas on private services. There are no policies permitting such development within rural designations. "This would appear to be appropriate; however, some clarification of the policies is necessary," reads Dyment's summary.

The township's main concern with condominiums on private services is the potential liability resulting from Ministry of Environment policy forcing the municipality to assume the system if it fails, or if operation doesn't meet ministry requirements. As a result of this concern, Dyment says a number of municipalities in the province have refused to allow condominium development on private services.

In his report, Dyment stresses the importance of condominium development, "which is the current trend in recreational and tourism development in Ontario." To preclude such development would have a detrimental impact on the local economy of an area such as Haliburton, he says.

Therefore, council will be asked to consider the following policies:

—the municipality will not assume ownership and maintenance for communal sewage and/or water systems constructed for condominiums;

—where private services are used, the systems will be owned and maintained by the same corporation as the residential component of the development;

—that corporation will maintain an irrevocable letter of credit or trust account equal to the cost of replacing the services in the event of a system failure;

—that corporation will hire a qualified engineer to prepare an annual report outlining operating problems, and provide a revised estimate of the replacement cost in the event of a system failure — the revised replacement cost will be reflected in the above mentioned financial security; and —when a sub-surface sewage system is used, sufficient lands will be set aside to replace the system if it fails. Where sufficient property isn't available, the developer must submit a plan by an engineer outlining how the system could be replaced while maintaining continuous sewage disposal facilities for the development.

These policies have been discussed with a number of area developers, "and they are in general agreement with them and believe that if they are incorporated into the Official Plan that the development of condominiums within the municipality can occur in the best interest of both the public and the development industry," says Dyment.

Lobby for BOE funds on hold

The board committee responsible for lobbying the province for more funds has not met since the election to plan a strategy for dealing with the change in government, but Baker says the trustees will continue presenting their case to the ministry.

When the board submits its annual capital funding request this November, Baker said it will include a more comprehensive report outlining the county's educational needs.

Included in the package will be a videotape of the flooding that occurred at Haliburton village's Victoria Street School after the beaver dam broke May 23.

The board is meeting with an education officer from the ministry's regional office this week to discuss the board's application to extend the temporary rezoning of the Archie Stouffer Annex in Minden.

The ministry is also being asked to recalculate the student capacity at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. Baker says the board has managed to meet the 20 to one, student/teacher ratio in the primary grades to qualify for an increased rate of ministry funding but the school's capacity is still based on 35 students to a class.

Because the NDP's new appointed Minister of Education, Marion Boyd, is a rookie MPP and new to the education field, Baker says the board probably won't be able to arrange a meeting with her very quickly.

Remember

At some point during the previous two years, the word 'responsible' was removed from the Canadian parliamentary system.

In the last four months, our federal government has shown an appalling lack of regard for Canadians from coast-to-coast.

Armed with a large majority in the House of Commons and two years away from the next general election, the Progessive Conservatives are pursuing a national agenda which has almost no support among the population.

The summer began with Prime Minister Brian Mulroney "rolling the dice" and trying to alter the Canadian Consititution with the Meech Lake Accord, a deal most people didn't understand let alone support.

It failed, not under the weight of public pressure, but because Elijah Harper had the courage, and the legislative power, to say "no".

Shortly after, Canadians watched as Mohawks and the Armed Forces stared each other down over rolls of razor wire and overturned trucks. Is this really the way we want to deal with native issues? Is this the sort of leadership we should expect from our federal government?

And now, despite the will of the people, the Mulroney government is pushing ahead with the seven per cent Goods and Services Tax using their majority in the House of Commons and stacking the Senate with eight additional Conservatives.

We need not travel all the way to Ottawa to witness this arrogant abuse of the right to govern. Next week Canada Post will be permanently shutting the doors on the Norland Post Office irregardless of the overwhelming community protest against the move.

The only possible reason for the government's actions is their unfailing certainity that by the next election Canadians will have forgotten Meech Lake, forgotten Oka, forgotten their post offices and accepted the GST.

Do they really think we are that naive? Are we that naive?

Unless we want to risk another four years of a government that is insensitive to our needs and wants, Canadians had better take a good, hard look at the federal record and keep it in mind when going to the polls in November 1992.

Staff changes

Times* publisher Jack Brezina is pleased to announce the appointment of Jay Kerr-Wilson to the position of editor, replacing Russ Duhaime. Kerr-Wilson has been a reporter with the paper since March, 1989.

Joining The Times editorial staff as reporter is Susan Grober. A permanent resident of the county for the past year-and-a-half, her family has owned a cottage in the area for many years.

A man's home may be his castle...

For a man's house is his castle, et domus sua cuique tutissimum refugium.

An English jurist by the name of Sir Edward Coke wrote that, away back in Shakespeare's time.

A man's home is his castle. It is the very foundation of British common law. It means that, while our governments may lie to us, while they may cheat us and tax us and spend our money foolishly and send our children off to fight their stupid wars, our governments cannot, by God, jerk us around in our own living rooms.

Because a man's home is his castle.

They don't call it the Throne Room for nothing, you know.

I love my bathroom for just that reason. It's my refuge. The one place in the house where, for a short while at least, I can legitimately be excused from taking phone calls, feeding the dog or pretending I have a clue about my kid's Algebra assignment.

Inveterate cottagers are a dedicated lot, says reader

Editor:

Inveterate: "Confirmed in a habit, practice or feeling" says Gage Canadian Dictionary.

Surely, an appropriate word to describe the members of South Lake Association of Cottagers and Residents. How else would you characterize persons willing to travel more than a hundred miles in heavy traffic, on a Friday night, just to spend a wet, cold weekend pulling a boat out of the water and tipping a floating dock on to the shoreline in preparation for the fall freeze? "Oh well", you say "just more of the weird behaviour of crazy tourists from the city. We will be glad to see the last of them at Thanksgiving weekend."

While it is true that we have 'tourists' in Haliburton County, such occasional visitors make up a very small percentage (10%?) of the thousands who flock to this beautiful land of lakes each year. Not unlike the loon, cottagers return faithfully in the spring to the same lake, happy to be back again for another season at their second home. Quite unlike our feathered friends, we leave our 'nest' at season's end in the care of neighbours under a blanket of snow and ice, with taxes all paid for a year as guarantee of our return.

Fifty years of 'cottaging' on South Lake has seen many a family, through second and third generations, live out an important part of their existence. The little cabin on the shoreline gradually expanding, wired, insulated, heated, and hooked up with a telephone and television. In many cases our senior 'cottagers' cement their identity with the community in retirement by becoming year round residents on the lake. Hardly the description of a tourist.

The burgeoning in recent years of lake associations in cottage country is further evidence of both a strong sense of community and a new-found awareness of the need to preserve and enhance our natural heritage. Small wonder that SLACAR as a rate payer association has met with such overwhelming approval. There are little more than a hundred properties on South Lake and our dynamic membership chairperson Phyllis De Grace reports more than 90% are paid up members. The association is clearly an idea whose time had come.

Bob Martin, our capable president convened the fall Executive Board meeting with a review of 1990 activities, noting the uniformly high level of membership participation. From the annual meeting, through social events, on to our environmental campaign to clean up the lake and lake-shore roads, large numbers of members made themselves available. Whether watching a fireworks display with the children or monitoring meetings of the Snowdon Township Council, the SLACAR logo was well represented.

Given the rise in popularity of cross-country skiing and snowmobiling, the 'cottage' season for many members is now virtually year round. Others come up to their home in the north simply to enjoy the beauty of a winter's day.

The Haliburton experience is frequently a lifelong commitment shared by thousands more than those who live and work in the community, but no less important. We extend to our many friends in Minden, and the rest of the County best wishes for a safe and warm winter.

South Lake.

Columnist made some fatal mistakes

Editor:

Arthur Black's column on death enshrouds fatal errors. "Joan of Arc," he says "went out ... in a blaze of glory, incinerated by the Church as a heretic." Funny, I thought she was a heroine! Check other sources, Art. I think you'll find that Joan was tried, convicted, and burned by the superstitious English, unwilling to accept that a 17-year-old French girl could beat the armored pants off them without witchcraft's wicked wiles. To clinch my argument: Joan is a saint! How many flaming heretics does Art suppose were canonized by the Roman Catholic Church?

When Art calls Claudius "august," he must mean his rank. Cl-Cl-Cl-Cl-Claudius was a poor physical specimen with an awful head-wrenching stammer. He was bumped by his wife Agrippina (who was also his niece) and by professional poisoner Locusta who, aided by apprentices, murdered almost 10,000 Romans. Agrippina wanted her son Domitius (later Nero) to be emperor in place of rightful heir Britannicus. She fed her husband poisonous mushrooms and he took sick at once.

One version of what happened next is that, when Claudius retched, Locusta gave him more poison. Another is that Locusta summoned Agrippina's friend Xenophon, a physician who, under the pretext of making Claudius vomit, slipped a poisoned feather down his throat. Whatever, Claudius died and Nero became emperor. I can't imagine a man might choke on a feather, as Art records with reckless certitude. When I read that, it sort of — uh — stuck in my throat.

I think Art's source is The Book of Lists (1977) by Wallechinsky, Wallace, and Wallace, in which journalist Oriana Fallaci writes that Joan of Arc "was burned at the stake by the Church." Being Italian and (presumably) Catholic, you'd think Fallaci would have known better. My source is The People's Almanac #2 by two of the same compilers: David Wallechinsky and Irving Wallace. As for Art and his black humor, the moral seems to be: If you want to get a handle on history, read more than one book.

Area holds fond memories

Editor:

My wife and I visited the Haliburton Highlands on September 25, 26, and 27. We have now returned home with fond memories of our visit.

We had very pleasant accommodations at Lakeview Motel on Highway #121 and look forward to returning there next year during the same season.

On Wednesday, we followed Tour #3 as printed in "This Month in the Highlands" published by The Times. This gave us an appreciation for the countryside off the main highways. The weather was sunny which highlighted the beautiful colours.

We called at The Times office this same day, seeking an item which was printed in the September 1989 issue of "This Month in the Highlands". Thanks to Mrs. Beers we were provided with the item.

We had lunch at Lawry's Cafe on Highway #35. Not only did we enjoy lunch here but also became acquainted with a very friendly group of local people. In fact we were impressed with the friendliness of every one we met, including the staff at Haliburton Museum.

We trust that we have conveyed the idea that we enjoyed our short stay in Haliburton and plan to return next year.

... but the throne room is sacred ground

the urge for solitude came upon them.

Which makes me wonder where the next generation is going to go for a little peace and quiet.

As a retreat, the bathroom is an endangered species. My newspaper tells me that the Trendy Folk down in California are retrofitting their bathrooms with — are you ready for this? — home computers, fax machines and cordless telephones.

David Shapiro is a chap in Van Nuys, California, who makes a living remodelling other people's bathrooms. And a very good living it is. Shapiro says that some of his clients are spending upwards of $100,000 to outfit their water closets as "social areas".

If you're thinking that it might be a little cramped wedging a Xerox machine in between the toilet and the bathroom weigh scales, I'm with you. But Californians (the ones with money at least) think bigger than you and I do. Any resemblance between their bathroom and the ones you and I hang out in is utterly coincidental.

According to David Shapiro, his customers are punching out the walls and raising the roofbeams in their washrooms so that the new "spaces" can accommodate easy chairs, sofas — even gymnasium equipment.

The idea, says Shapiro, is to make the bathroom more accessible so that "kids can come in and talk while their parents are getting ready for work or doing their exercise routines."

Is it just me or is this the most grotesque idea to come down the California Turnpike since Roseanne Barr?

I don't know about you, but I don't wish to talk to my kids when I'm "getting ready for work" in my bathroom. We can debate the meaning of existence over the Wheatabix in the kitchen. I'll be delighted to handle any teenage queries in the living room, the basement or even the attic.

But when it comes to the bathroom, one at a time, please.

As for the idea of turning my bathroom into a work station with fax machines, cordless phones and a colour-co-ordinated Tandy laptop, I recall that Hugh Hefner, the Playboy Poohbah, had a sign over the door of his Chicago pad that read: "IF YOU DON'T SWING, DON'T RING"

I'm thinking of installing a brass plaque over my bathroom door. It will read: IF YOU RING (OR BUZZ OR HUM OR BOOT OR CLICK OR MAKE COPIES) STAY THE HELL OUT OF MY BATHROOM!

Upper class: Minden trip gives students unique look at environment

by Susan Grober

Teachers and students of the prestigious Upper Canada College got more than they bargained for when visiting Minden last week to learn about the environment.

After examining the landfill site, questioning the business community, and tackling aerial rope climbs at Kilcoo Camp, the students experienced a real taste of the elements while battling a blustery storm during an overnight canoe trip.

"They came back soaked and cold and tired, and they still had a good time," says organizer Paul Crysler.

Despite the fact that 10 different programs were planned over the course of the week-long project, it was the canoe trip experience which impressed the 130 Grade 9 students the most, says the science teacher.

Joined by a number of teachers from different departments, as well as 36 Grade 12 and 13 students acting as councillors or leaders, the Grade 9s went through a variety of programs, with the key criteria being how people affect the environment.

Different studies included a look at the camp site, and a survey of Minden and its heritage. Students visited the museum, the Bethel Church cemetery, the Old Clergy House, and the Bowron Homestead. Land use in town was also surveyed, with students questioning whether institutional, commercial or residential buildings dominate.

Consumer and retail practises were examined, with students checking out the availability of green products. And they visited the landfill to see what types of garbage are dumped there, and the environment surrounding the site.

"We were looking at man's impact on the environment—that was the common theme," says Crysler.

Some may wonder how an activity such as climbing along ropes which are strung high above the trees would have a significance in keeping with this theme. Crysler says it had a very real impact on the students.

"When they come down off those high aerials, the notion of how to value group problem-solving is of an advantage," he says. "We try to get them to realize that co-operative problem-solving is the only way to solve problems, especially in what appears to be a life-threatening situation.

"They must link their emotions to solving environmental problems."

Sparking an interest in the students of this independent boys' school now could prove to be a way of ensuring protection of the environment in the future.

Upper Canada College is considered by some to be the best school in the country. Last year, all graduates got into the university of their choice, including five who applied to Ivy League universities.

Altogether, there are a little over 1,000 students from Grades 3 to 13 at the school, which is located in central Toronto.

Each year, students enjoy educational trips in as far-reaching areas as Russia, Washington, Scotland, and third-world countries.

So what were they doing in Minden? When the environmental program was still in its initial stages, Crysler and another teacher visited many camps and camping grounds in Ontario.

"We looked at Haliburton, but there weren't enough historical components," says Crysler, who was very impressed with Minden's museum, and the Bethel Church cemetery. "There was also nothing like this near Huntsville. And only a couple of the camps in other areas were appropriate."

The program will probably run again next year, but Crysler isn't sure whether they will visit Minden again. "I'd like to try some outdoor camping, sleeping in tents instead of cabins."

Still, Crysler thinks Minden was a good choice for this first year. "The significance of the history of this place will fall short in terms of impact to the kids, but I think the whole process would be invalid if it wasn't there.

"They'll remember walking on the landfill site, but I don't think kids that age really care about the diversity of the eco-system.

"But that canoe trip," he adds, remembering strong wind, biting cold and pounding rain. "Talk about immediate impact."

Support for Ride not so easy this time

all for it," said Walker. "This time I have reservations."

Given the size of the event and Trent University's decision to limit the number of participants, Walker said she has concerns about the prospect of policing the Ride. "But there's no doubt about it being good for businesses," she said.

Minden played host to the Ride for Sight for five years, but after the 1989 event organizers announced they were accepting an offer from Trent University to relocate to Peterborough in 1990.

Trent has agreed to host the event next year but only if the number of participants allowed on the campus is limited to 5,000.

Although the City of Peterborough has offered the use of the city's parks to accomodate the overflow, but Collier says the organizers don't want to split the Ride up between different venues.

Pye said the decision to host the Ride involves deciding which is more important; the economic benefits to local businesses or the inconvenience that comes with inviting 5,000 riders to stay the weekend.

"I really hate the Ride for Sight weekend as someone who lives downtown," said Pye. "But we're supposed to be representing the businesses, and I can't imagine anyone not wanting it."

Area 5's Ted Preston said that business-wise, the Ride is "nothing but a bonus."

"It's hard to think we're not going to benefit from having 5,000 people in the area," said Stevens. "They have to eat, sleep and buy their gas." But he also said the town has to consider the damage that might result at the fairgrounds during the event and the inconvenience experienced by local residents.

"We have to use common sense," said Pye. "We're experienced now and we know what to expect." He agreed that the potential for problems exists, but said in the two Rides he experienced, "there wasn't a lot of damage that wasn't able to be put right easily."

Stevens said that the cost of repairing any damage caused by the riders is paid for by the organizers. "Is an inconvience for the weekend and that's all it is — an inconvenience," said Stevens. "How much money would we have to put forth to attract 5,000 people in one weekend.

"The spin-offs are great that weekend," he said. "There's not a hotel or motel you can get into and they're lined up at the restaurants."

Paul Hopkins, who owns Apparitions on Highway 35, was at the meeting although not a member of the BIA. He said Minden is a tourist area and should be attracting whatever events possible into the area. "If the Ride wants to come back here, we should feel fortunate," he said.

Part of the problem, said Hopkins, is the image most people have of motorcycle riders. "If it was 5,000 dog sledders we wouldn't say they can't comé."

By refusing to host the event, Pye said Minden would be setting a precedent for other events that might be looking to locate here. "If we say no we're showing we have closed minds," said Pye.

After the members passed the resolution to support the event, Stevens said council will face a tough decision if the Ride organizers ask to come back, given the strong pro and anti-Ride sentiments in the community. "I hope when we're making the decision we make the decision that is best for the whole area," said Stevens.

When the Ride organizers announced their departure last year, Pye said some of the loudest yelling came from Minden's service clubs who benefit from fund-raising activities held during the event. He said he hoped representatives from the clubs will be at Thursday's meeting to share their feelings with council.

Stevens said he hopes any concerned citizens wishing to voice their opinions on the issue will attend the meeting.

Gord Monk, who runs a funeral home on Bobcaygeon Road, entered the meeting after the resolution was passed and expressed some of the concerns he has with the event.

The traffic created by the influx of motorcylces impedes his ability to conduct funerals said Monk. He agreed that the event does benefit the area economically and said most of the 5,000 participants are "fine people" but the five per cent of the riders who misbehave, "give the Ride a real black eye.

"It seems impossible for the Ride people to control them," he said.

He mentioned that his property has been damaged by vandals during past Ride for Sight weekends and said he has real concerns about the township's new ball diamonds.

Although Stevens said the diamonds will be out-of-bounds to the Ride, Monk said; "My experience is they don't respect areas that are in-bounds or out-of-bounds.

"Financially, I can see the benefits," said Monk. "But unless it's very tightly controlled there are a lot of drawbacks and problems."

Monk said he supports the goal of the Ride to raise money to combat Retinitis Pigmentosa, a degenerative eye disease. "It's a worthwhile cause," said Monk. "I've supported it financially in the past and will continue to do so."

Dysart sewer awaits ministry

Dysart council and Lake Kashagawigamog Resort owners are again playing the waiting game with the Ministry of the Environment over the proposed sewer extension.

Reeve Bill Davis says the ministry still hasn't responded to the resort owners' latest proposal to get the resort sewer line on stream.

In late August the resort owners released a statement asking the ministry to reconsider the terms of the approval for the sewer line. Davis says he's been in contact with the ministry but has yet to receive any firm answer.

The ministry has approv-

Minden O.M.H.A. hockey schedule begins next week

Archie Stouffer's Grade 4 classes were all geared up to participate in last Wednesday's cross country race.

Archie Stouffer students run cross country

A week of wet weather broke into sunny skies just in time for this year's Archie Stouffer Elementary School cross country race.

A number of teachers joined the boys and girls in Grades 4 to 8 who participated in what for some was an arduous trek. The winning students were as follows:

Grade 4: Daniel Vanderlip beat out the boys with a time of 7:38, followed by Michael Hamilton and Adam Durkin. Naomi Stephenson led the girls at 9:15 with Jamie Burley and Helen Harris not far behind.

Grade 5: Cameron Leonard finished at 7:20, followed by Greg Simmons and Tim Kegel. Cheryl Smith led with 8:09, with

Cottagers suspicious of wrecking yard plans

by Susan Grober

A court date has not yet been set for Snowdon Township's injunction filed against a towing operation to cease and desist holding wrecks on property along South Lake.

At Monday's council meeting, President Bob Martin of the South Lake Association of Cottagers and Residents (SLACAR) asked for a progress report on the matter. The township filed the injunction in August because the business is in violation of its existing zoning and property standards by-laws.

"It's a slow process," commented Martin, who offered to help the township in its case by supplying information the association has gathered during the ongoing dispute.

Clerk Ernie Hills said at this stage lawyers are just drafting responses to allegations made by the township, and that the association will be contacted if a court case is necessary.

Meanwhile, some association members are suspicious that Lyddiatt intends to keep the wreckage yard on his lakefront property, and is working on a proposal made earlier this year by planning consultant Brad Bradamore.

"Lyddiatt has put in a driveway and cleared his trees exactly as Brad Bradamore's original plan suggested," said

Haliburton beats Fenelon in close 1-0 soccer match

In a close, defensive game Haliburton's senior high school soccer team defeated the Fenelon Falls Falcons last Wednesday by a score of 1-0.

Faced with a must-win situation, the Redmen relied on goal tender David Kinsella to stonewall the Fenelon kickers.

"He played the best game I've ever seen him play," said Redmen Coach Walter Tose. "He make two particularly outstanding saves to earn the shut-out."

The lone goal of the game was scored by Jan Haedicke who headed the ball into the Fenelon net on a cross pass by Paddy Taylor.

In the other game of the afternoon's double-header, the Junior Redmen dominated the Junior Falcons to earn their first victory of the season by a score of 2-1.

Tose said the Juniors controlled play for most of the game and the lone Fenelon goal was scored on one of the few chances they had at the net.

Mike Morrison scored for Haliburton in the opening half of the game and Jonathon Bishop added the game-winner in the second half.

Each team has two games left to play in the regular season and will be facing the two Lindsay schools, LCVI and I.E Weldon.

After last week's results, the Seniors are tied for first with Fenelon Falls and the Juniors are tied for third place in their division.

Grade 6: Brian Willison topped this race at 6:51, followed by Travis Leonard and Nathan Stephenson. Julie Vanderlip led the girls at 7:40, with Rachel Brown and Nicole Gauley following.

Grade 7: Tommy Bagshaw won with a 7:00 time, followed by Rob Davis and Curtis Fielding. Amanda Stephenson was timed at 7:32, beating out Janene Garbutt and Marita Schrader.

Grade 8: Aaron Tomlinson led with a time of 6:15, with Colin Klages and Sam Little coming in second and third. And Anna Tomlinson was clocked at 7:27 when she led over Meaghan Obee and Cindy Bondarenko.

Norland outlet found

by Susan Grober

A retail postal outlet has been chosen to service residents when the doors to the Norland Post Office finally close in the middle of October.

The Canada Post Corporation recently informed Acting Postmaster Laura Bryant that it will finally close the post office on either October 17 or 18. "That's about all I know," she says. "They haven't really said anything to me."

The Norland Trading Company on Highway 35 will operate as the retail postal outlet.

Local delivery will be provided through postal boxes in the outlet. Customers can also post their mail and purchase products such as stamps, money orders, registered mail and CODs.

Rural route service will be moved down to Coboconk on October 12, and those customers will continue to have their mail delivered by rural contractor.

The corporation announced its decision to close the federally-owned building in July. First option to purchase the building at a fair market value will be given to town council, before it is listed with a local real estate broker.

The building has serviced Norland for the past 10 years, and currently houses 162 lock boxes and 51 general deliveries.

Association will fight

Martin.

Councillor Al Jopling said Lyddiatt is probably just improving the property, which is also the location of his Silver Birches tent and trailer park. "It's a gamble to go ahead with work for an unapproved plan," said Jopling.

And Hills said Lyddiatt has advised the township of his intentions to proceed with a rezoning application to continue operating the service on a corner property away from the lake.

The township is still waiting for a preliminary report on this proposal from planner David Barber.

Council also considered correspondence from SLACAR member Ray Lymer, who noted that the association is now incorporated and constitutes a legal body. Association members—who have objected to Lyddiatt's operation for over a year—also informed council they intend to fight until the end.

Further discussion on Snowdon noise by-law

by Susan Grober

Snowdon Township Council is still working toward adopting an anti-noise bylaw.

At Monday's meeting, council received a draft bylaw from the municipal solicitor. Clerk Ernie Hills suggested the draft be referred back to committee for ideas of enforcing the bylaw, "so there's some consistency of thought on how it should be done."

Council decided to look into adopting such a bylaw during its last meeting, in order to address complaints over a number of noisy parties held on the Labour Day weekend.

When police were called to one of the parties, they said nothing could be done because there was no noise bylaw to enforce.

A noise bylaw would have to be enforced by the township's bylaw enforcement officer, but the police are willing to assist, Hills said at the previous meeting.

The problem is that Snowdon's bylaw enforcement officer is employed only on a part-time basis. So council must determine a way of enforcing the bylaw with the help of police.

With a bylaw in place, police could be called to the scene and relay their findings to the bylaw enforcement officer, who could then press charges.

Before adopting the bylaw, council must also review noise bylaws used by neighbouring municipalities. "Minden has an effective bylaw," said Hills, who will provide council with a copy.

We manage post offices in communities like yours - the backbone of postal service in this country. We understand the frustration you feel over the decline in service from Canada Post. You're not mistaken. Consider these facts:
➡ 800 post offices have been shut down, and the list is growing every week
➡ Saturday hours in the federally operated post offices are being reduced and the doors are being closed to the public during noon hour throughout the week
➡ management's alternative is to have more and more mail processed in variety stores
We think you deserve better.
Things can change if politicians know their jobs depend on it. Tell your Member of Parliament that the federally operated post office is a service you won't do without. They'll get the message.

Lutterworth cracks down on speeders

by Susan Grober

The brakes were pulled on fast drivers in Lutterworth Township Tuesday as council passed a by-law reducing the speed limit on certain roads.

Previously, most township roads had a speed limit of 80 km per hour. But this by-law will reduce the speed on 23 roads according to Ministry of Transportation guidelines, and pending ministry approval.

Councillor Maurice Boyd applauded the changes. "Of all the roads I've travelled in the township, I can't see any being safe to drive over 50 km an hour," he said.

Those roads reduced to 50 km per hour are: Buller, Clear Lake, Davis Lake, Denna Lake, East Moore Lake, Green Gables, Humphrey, Iron Mine, Lutterworth Park Drive, Lutterworth, Murdoch, Pine Ridge, Sawyer's, Schaefer's, Somerville Boundary, Spar Lake, and Swinson's Road.

Roads reduced to 40 km per hour are: Lutterworth Pines Drive, Mistivale Trail, and Moore Lake Estates Road.

Roads reduced to 30 km per hour are: Forster's, Grant's, and Sandy Bay Road.

Without a by-law, a municipality can recommend speed limits by posting yellow signs, but these limits cannot be enforced by the police. With the by-law in place, white signs will be posted, enabling police to lay fines.

Marina may be re-opened

by Susan Grober

A local businessman hopes to re-establish the marina at Moore's Falls in Lutterworth Township.

Paul Pilon approached council Tuesday to discuss the feasibility of the project. He also stressed the importance of the service, which would be located next to the existing variety store on Highway 35.

"A tremendous number of people have come to me and complained because there is now virtually no service at all in the area," said Pilon. "To get gas or groceries, you have to drive outside of the area.

"It's ridiculous that you can't even buy a gallon of gas anymore."

A rezoning would be required because of a by-law change which occurred after the marina closed. The current zone would only accommodate a dry land marina.

Pilon must also purchase the 66 foot shoreline allowance before he can service boats with a gas pump and docks by the water.

But before going ahead with his applications, Pilon wanted to find out whether council approved of the idea.

Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon agreed the area needs more services. "How can you get the tourist trade in if there is nothing there?" he asked.

Reeve Carol Puffer told Pilon to follow through with his applications to rezone and to purchase the shoreline allowance.

Lack of access blocks plans to build hunt camp

by Susan Grober

The developer of a proposed hunting cabin in Snowdon Township must request special permission to use Crown land as access to his property.

Brad Bradamore approached council on Monday with a proposal to build a hunting cabin on a 50-acre parcel southwest of the Irondale landfill site. The problem is he cannot obtain a building permit because the property has no clear access on a road allowance.

"My argument is there's lots of properties in the township that don't have access to a 66 foot road allowance," Bradamore said.

He proposed that people could reach the 16 by 32 foot cabin by cutting across a Ministry of Natural Resources timber trail on all-terrain vehicles.

Clerk Ernie Hills said he would draft Bradamore a special application with stipulations which include that he obtain permission from the ministry to get access across Crown land, and that the cabin only be used as a camp during hunting season.

"That's all I want it for," Bradamore told council. "I'm doing this because there's no place to hunt around here."

Hills pointed out there are still other items to consider, including health unit approval, before council can consider the application.

Resort owners want new deal

ed the sewer extension but has limited the resorts to only hooking up their present facilities. Under the conditions of the approval resorts will not be allowed to expand until a detailed water quality study is carried out to determine whether or not the lake can handle the increased effluent.

But resort owners say they cannot afford to finance their portion of the project costs without the guarantee of future expansion.

They have agreed to enter into agreements with the township outlining their financial commitments to the sewer line, but would like to see the agreements signed by the township and the ministry guaranteeing that the project will be completed 100 per cent.

They would also like to see the environmental study of Lake Kashagawigamog started immediately so its completion will coincide with the completion of the sewage plant expansion design.

This is the second time in just over a year that the sewer project has been put on hold while the resort owners and township wait for a ministry decision.

It took almost nine months for former environment minister Jim Bradley to decide not to subject the proposal to a full environmental assessment as requested by property owners on the lake.

Heating in the Winter.
Air Conditioning in the Summer. It's all there, right under our Feet.

If you want to reduce your electric heating bill, look down at your feet. Now look a few feet further. Look at the earth itself. It could be your next source of heating and air conditioning.

Ground source heat pumps are designed to draw heat from the earth and pump it into your home. In the summer, the ground source heat pump reverses its operation. It extracts heat and humidity from your home and pumps it into the earth. The excess heat can also be used to heat domestic hot water or swimming pools and hot tubs.

This is truly the cleanest most efficient way to heat and air condition your home. And while ground source heat pumps cost more than traditional furnaces and air conditioners they soon pay for themselves with savings. That's why today's progressive home builders and renovators are specifying them for their clients.

Call us for more information about ground source heat pumps. You'll see that one of the most advanced technologies in heating and cooling is as old as the earth itself.

Elgin Stouffer a staunch supporter of the county

The Highlands has lost one of its staunchest supporters with the death of Elgin Stouffer. This community-spirited individual lost a two-year battle with cancer last Wednesday.

There are few in the county who were not aware of his dedication to the promotion of the Highlands as the best place to live or visit. His unending boosterism was suitably recognized last November when he was named Highlander of the Year (1989) at the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner.

His roots here went back to 1939 when his family moved to the Highlands. For 22 years the Stouffer family operated a lumber mill at Halls Lake. That family tradition came to an abrupt end in 1984 when the mill was destroyed by fire. Since then, Elgin remained active in the local business community working as a sales agent at the Minden office of Bowes and Cocks Real Estate.

Elgin Stouffer served this community through a large number of roles. He was an active member of the Haliburton County Chamber of Commerce, served as councillor from 1976 to 1978 and deputy reeve from 1978 to 1985 in Stanhope Township, represented the county on the Sir Sandford Fleming College Board of Directors and was a member of the Board of Directors and president of the Forest Products Accident Prevention Association.

His love of the county was evident in his daily life. For years he provided CKLY radio with a "Haliburton Highlands weather report" which almost always included references to upcoming local events and activities. Elgin was also at the forefront in promoting the cross-country ski trails of the Highlands. He was the one who coined the phrase "The Cross-Country Ski Capital of Canada" which reflected both his enthusiasm and aspirations for the future of the Highlands.

Although his focus was always on the Highlands, Elgin also shared his skills with others in the world. In the early 80's he and Sinc Nesbitt travelled to Dominica in the Caribbean to help establish a saw mill and logging program. The skills he left behind were valued by the island community after a hurricane destroyed much of the housing.

In 1986 he went to Peru on a similar mission sponsored by the Canadian Executive Services Organization.

Elgin Stouffer, his heart was in the Highlands and the Highlands was always in his heart.

Elgin Stouffer is survived by his wife Marilyn, sons Kenneth and Richard, four grandchildren, his mother Candice of Stouffville, sisters Katharine of Vancouver, Mary of Pembroke and brother John of Haliburton.

Funeral service was held Saturday at Haliburton United Church with interment at Twelve Mile Lake Cemetery.

Hospital funds in place

The Haliburton Chronic Care Wing Expansion Fund now stands at over $520,000, it was reported at the Saint Joseph's General Hospital Foundation's Annual Meeting held on September 25, 1990. As of March 31, 1990, the Foundation's fiscal year end, the fund had grown to $493,000. The Foundation's Executive Director, John Macdonald, estimates that with the accumulated interest since then, the fund is now at $522,000. "These funds are very secure," said Macdonald. "They will continue to earn a good rate of return until they can be applied for use in the Haliburton area."

The fund was originally established by the Hospital's Foundation to cover the community's share of the planned chronic care facilities at the Haliburton Hospital. The postponement of this project by the Ministry of Health has meant that the fund has been able to accumulate almost $140,000 in interest since March 31, 1988.

A detailed review of the health and social service needs of the Haliburton County, which is currently underway, will determine whether the chronic care expansion should be given the go ahead or not. The review is being coordinated by the Haliburton, Kawartha and Pine Ridge District Health Council. A report is expected to be ready later this year.

Agreement accepted

expressed some concern over the increased fees. "We're getting doubled every year," he said.

Simmons noted that the fire department is now being called more often to assist during accidents. But Clerk Ernie Hills said that, according to the agreement, the fire department won't respond unless the OPP requests its assistance. He added that government assistance is available to cover such calls.

Hills also pointed out that a member of council must authorize before the fire department is sent out to a landfill fire.

Council accepted the agreement. "There's not much we can do about it," said Deputy-Reeve Dwain Wruth.

Ride is a needed boost

Editor:

Winter in this area, can be long and mean, both to large and small businesses.

Ride for Sight coming to Minden, not only gives businesses a boost, it also promotes tourism, there must be a cure for R.P., and without donations, raised by the cyclists the cure will never be found.

Our council should realize these facts, and by all means, bring the ride back to Minden.

Nell Miscio,
Minden.

Changes still a long time coming

Reflections

by David Suzuki

There has been a tremendous increase in public awareness of environmental issues in the past few years and it's clear Canadians want to act in an environmentally responsible way. It's a good beginning but we are a long way from making the big changes — reorienting business to protect air, water, soil and biodiversity above all else; relieving the Third World debt load; reallocating global resources; preserving wilderness; reducing pollution; changing patterns of transportation and energy use; etc.

Such a massive transformation will only take place when our own attitudes, values and beliefs have been changed. Recognizing this, a few scientists with impeccable professional credentials are beginning to use words like "spiritual," "religious," "love," and "God" — words once unthinkable in a scientific discourse. They believe we must develop a new vision of our place in the natural world, a view that goes beyond merely treating nature carefully to ensure our own survival.

One of the greatest authorities on biological diversity, especially in tropical rain forests, is Harvard University's Edward O. Wilson. When I interviewed him two years ago and asked what is needed to change our destructive ways, he replied: "We have to get to know our kin — the other animals and plants that share the planet with us. We are related to them through our evolutionary history and our DNA. To get to know our relatives is to come to love and cherish them."

Stanford ecologist Paul Ehrlich has long suggested that destruction of the global biosphere will only stop when there has been a "quasi-religious" change. Ehrlich acknowledges that one of his early career inspirations was the Australian scientist, Charles Birch. Birch's classic book The Distribution and Abundance of Animals, co-authored with H.G. Andrewartha, was published in 1954 and brought a new way of looking at the intricate connectedness of species in natural ecosystems, the way the number and impact of each kind of organism are regulated, and the hazards of uncontrolled growth in a finite environment.

Birch was this year's co-winner of the Templeton Prize for Progress in Religion, a prestigious award worth more than half a million dollars that has in the past gone to such people as Mother Teresa and Billy Graham.

If it seems odd for a scientist to win a religious award, consider his current reflections: "There's something wrong about the way we're operating in the world — industrialization is despoiling the planet. When you ask what is wrong, it comes down to there's something wrong about our values."

In Birch's opinion, the problems began with the

TSW water levels report

At 46.1 per cent on September 24, the reservoir lakes have continued to decline despite flows averaging very close to the usual minimum for the navigation/recreation season. The dry conditions that have been prevailing since early August seem to be resulting in a continued decline of the reservoirs and Lake Simcoe-Couchiching. The reservoirs ten-year average of the 1970's was about 49.7 per cent for September 24.

Wetter, cooler conditions may begin to reverse the decline any day now.

Dorset acid rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of September 23 to September 29.

September 23, 3 mm rain, 4.7 pH, from northern Ontario.

September 24, 3 mm rain, 4.3 pH, from northern Indiana, northern Ohio, southern Michigan and southern Ontario.

Rainfall for Sept. 89	82.6 mm	3.2 in.
Days with rain	12
Days mostly sunny	11
Days with thunderstorms	2

The first half of the month was fairly warm and pleasant then fall weather took over September 15. Second half of the month was quite cool and wet.

Very heavy frost on September 18, it was early. First heavy frost last September was -5 September 27.

Rainfall about average at 3 inches this September and last September.

Trivia: September 25, 1950 The Great Smoke Pall fed by burning muskeg and forests in northern Alberta spread across North America. On the 26th not only a blue moon but also a blue sun was observed over eastern Canada, northeastern U.S. and Great Britain. Guess the environmentalists didn't even mention it 40 years ago.

Stanhope Jaws of Life campaign is complete

Stanhope Fire Fighters' campaign to purchase "Jaws of Life" rescue equipment was completed on October 1 when Minden Rotary Club president Brian Adamson presented a cheque covering the remainder of the purchase price to Association president Bob Pollard. The unit they have purchased is identical to the one located in Haliburton and will be available for use in the area, wherever it is needed.

Don Hall, our "senior" member (in years of service, not age) received a well deserved Paul Harris Fellowship award at our September 24 meeting. The presentation was made by Rotary District Governor Peter Hudson in recognition of Don's many years of outstanding service to Rotary, at the club and district levels. Peter also presented a "Distinguished Club Citation" plaque to immediate past president Russ Paul in recognition of his excellent record during his year in office. He specially complimented Russ and the club for involvement in a wide range of community service projects and the enthusiasm and general activity of the club as a whole.

Congratulations to Russ and Don and our thanks to Peter for these recognitions of two very deserving Rotarians.

You know, Rotary is a very large service organization with member clubs in 172 countries and regions at the international level. However, outside of any district or international involvement, in the final analysis Rotary is just people in a community like Minden, helping when and where they can, to make their community a better place to live while enjoying the fellowship of others. One fundamental which helps us in relationships in the Rotary 4 Way Test. It is four questions you could ask yourself of the things you think, say or do in your home, business or the community:

1. Is it the Truth?
2. Is it Fair to all concerned?
3. Will it build Goodwill and Better Friendships?
4. Will it be Beneficial to all concerned?

See you next month.

For Your Service

by Rotarian Bill Roszell

Minden Rotary President Brian Adamson, left, presents Bob Pollard of the Stanhope Fire Department with the balance of the money needed to purchase the Jaws of Life. The equipment will be stored in Stanhope but used all over.

Spirituality the key in resolving global crisis rise of the modern scientific way of looking at the world. "Ever since the rise of science in the 17th century, the mode of the universe people have tended to support is a very materialistic, mechanical model."

Since the last century when "Vitalism," a belief that living organisms possess a kind of "vital force" was discredited, biologists have accepted that, like machines, organisms are completely explicable simply as aggregates of their atomic and molecular components. In Birch's opinion, this is flawed and misses a fundamental element.

There's something mental in existence ... in life, which we let slip through our fingers in the past. From protons to people, you have to look at them more as subjects than objects. Then you can see much more easily the relationship of God, not just to human beings, but to all of creation. That is because God can be incarnate in life, but God cannot be incarnate in machinery."

Birch sees all life, not just us, possessing intrinsic value. "I want people to be concerned for animals, whether or not they're useful to us. They are subjects, not just objects."

But how does Birch think of this God that he speaks of? He defines God as: "Persuasive love. Love that persuades creation to become what it can be. But the paradox is, there's power in love. And in the end, the only power that matters is love."

The objectification of the animate and inanimate through science distances us from our surroundings. It creates an apparent separation between us and the rest of the world, therby deluding us into believing we can do with it as we wish. Our re-immersion in and reconnection with the natural world changes the notion that we end at our skin, and inserts us as part of a greater whole. We may call it love that binds this web of life together.

These ideas of Wilson, Birch and other thoughtful scholars are taking us into the territory of value and belief systems that scientists have traditionally declared off limits. But in trying to resolve the global crisis, they identify the spiritual dimension as the key place to begin the personal revolution that will trigger the needed transformations in our social and economic systems.

The September meeting of our Resident's club was held in the Lounge with 14 members present. Jean Marsh presided. Since it was election time Jean turned the meeting over to Mark Vasey. A slate of officers was elected as, —

Pres. - Fred Knight.

Vice-Pres. - Mark V. and Lillian Davidson are 1st and 2nd Vices.

Secretary - Vivian Anderson.

Treasurer - Barbara Sisson.

Committees were chosen to assist the President.

September 21 was chosen to dine out at Haliburton Legion with Jean Marsh as Convenor. We congratulate the Executive and look forward to a busy year.

Many of our residents enjoyed a very tasty roast beef dinner at Haliburton Legion this month. Our many thanks go to the Ladies who prepared such a treat. Our new President, Fred Knight, expressed his appreciation on our behalf. Jean Marsh, our convenor, called the names of the birthday folks to come to the lovely cake prepared for them. They were Jean C., Doris F., Emily P., Doris M., May M., Fred K., Len T., and Harry C. whose birthdays were in the summer months and September. (Those who were not with us were Marion F., Bill and Margaret H. (who had birthdays then). We wish all Good Health for many more years. We were very Seniors are Thankful for what?

The pleasant people who serve us for our needs at stores, garages, service stations, doctors, dentists and others.

The plentiful supplies of good food at stores, and goods at others.

The right to do most things we like within our laws.

The beauty of our rolling hills in their fall colour.

The friends and neighbours who really care.

And not the least for somewhat limited health

For these and many more blessings, we thank God.

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

FLEMING

SIR SANDFORD FLEMING COLLEGE

REQUEST FOR CREATIVE PROPOSALS FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF A STUDENT RESIDENCE LOCATION: FROST CAMPUS LINDSAY, ONTARIO

Sir Sandford Fleming College is interested in receiving creative proposals from developers who would like to enter into a mutually beneficial agreement to develop a 150-bed student residence on the college site. The facility must be accessible to the physically challenged, and provide for adequate parking and a lit walkway to the main building.

Funding to be supplied by the developer.

A "Proposal Package" has been developed to assist companies with their submission. Copies of the Proposal Package can be obtained from

Sir Sandford Fleming College
Purchasing Office
526 McDonnel Street
Peterborough, Ontario
K9J 7B1

For further information please contact Mr. Larry Carr-Braint, Director of Student Development, Dr. Tim Easley, Dean, (705) 324-9144 or Mrs. Sandy Lawrence, Director of Purchasing at (705) 749-5530.

Proposal submissions will be received up to October 31st, 1990 at the Purchasing Office at 526 McDonnel St., Peterborough, Room 120.

THE LOWEST OR ANY PROPOSAL NOT NECESSARILY ACCEPTED.

WHAT WILL YOU DO FOR YOUR RED CROSS?

Form 7
Sale of Land by Public Tender

Municipal Tax Sales Act, 1984

THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SNOWDON

Take Notice that tenders are invited for the purchase of the land(s) described below and will be received until 3:00 p.m. local time on Monday, November 26, 1990 at Municipal Offices, Gelert, R.R. #1, MINDEN, Ont. K0M 2K0.

The tenders will then be opened in public on the same day at Snowdon Township Municipal Office, Gelert (County Rd. #1) at 3:30 p.m.

Description of Land(s)	Minimum Tender Amount (Set out the cancellation price as of the first day of advertising)
Lot 3, Concession 10 Snowdon Township	$5,942.93
Part Lot 11, Concession 1 Being Part 34 of RP 19R-115 Snowdon Township	$2,017.22
Parts of Lots 11 & 12, Concession 14 Snowdon Township * The successful purchaser will be required to provide a survey on the subject property for purposes of providing a legal description.	$3,257.29
Part of Lot 7, Concession 2 Lying South of the Irondale River (Roll #46 12 001 000 162 05 0000) * The successful purchaser will be required to provide a survey on the subject property for purposes of providing a legal description.	$3,849.48
Part of Lot 7, Concession 2 Lying South of the Irondale River (Roll #46 12 001 000 165 00 0000) * The successful purchaser will be required to provide a survey on the subject property for purposes of providing a legal description.	$2,904.79

Tenders must be submitted in the prescribed form and must be accompanied by a deposit in the form of a money order or of a bank draft or cheque certified by a bank, trust company or Province of Ontario Savings Office payable to the municipality (or board) and representing at least 20 per cent of the tender amount.

The municipality makes no representation regarding the title to or any other matters relating to the land to be sold. Responsibility for ascertaining these matters rests with the potential purchasers.

This sale is governed by the Municipal Tax Sales Act, 1984, being chapter 48 of the Statues of Ontario 1984 and the Municipal Tax Sales Rules made under that Act. The successful purchaser will be required to pay the amount tendered plus accumulated taxes and the relevant land transfer tax.

News from Staanworth Court

pleased to have Barbara Sisson, our manager with us.

We were all very shocked to hear of the death of Holly Cooper. Holly was President of our Resident's club for sometime. She was a very talented lady and many of her 'stained-glass' works remain in the community. Our deep sympathy goes out to her family. We shall miss her very much.

* * *

We wish to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Harrison to Staanworth Court. Trust you will feel at home with us.

Many people met in the Bowron Home (a Heritage project) — to hear our Sylvia Howard reminisce over the years she served as a nurse with our former Dr. Agnes Jamieson and partner, Olga Myles. Her stories were most interesting as she led us through truly pioneer times — horse and buggy times. A tape was taken of her episode by Mr. Hulbig and a copy was given to Sylvia. (We hope to see it on our TV soon.)

* * *

Congratulations to Maxine Cross and Fred Knight who received the Gold Medal for Haliburton and Muskoka District II Sr. Games in the Dart Competition.

Early this summer Corinne and Hector Arsenault and Corinne Bonneville enjoyed a tour to Oberammergarr, Batavia, Germany, to see the soul-stirring Passion Play performed by the local people. This Play depicts the life of Christ on his entry into Jerusalum before His crucifixion. 500 children take part with adults. You see this Play is the result of a promise made by those local people in their church that if the dreadful plague that took so many lives would spare the rest, the people would enact this Play forever. So, since that time in the 1960's the heart-rending Passion Play of 2500 actors is repeated every ten years.

A note of appreciation goes out to Doris & Mel Foster for the lovely oil painting of Roger's Pass, British Columbia, to be in our Lounge; as well as the Norman Rockwell mugs for our coffee drinkers.

Jean and Harry Cowan enjoyed a tour recently to historic old Cape Cod on the Atlantic Ocean. There an atmosphere of tradition and being in another world is carefully preserved.

To visit —

The talented Norman Rockwell children's artist showplace.

Homes in Greek architecture.

Quaint fishing villages.

Vast cranberry marshes and sand dunes.

All these present a part of our land still steeped in its traditional past. So I agree with Jean and Harry it is a very relaxing experience.

Funding available for assistive devices

by Doreen Hawman

The Ontario Ministry of Health, through the Assistive Device Program, is now providing funding for Ontario residents of all ages, who require custom made conventional orthoses such as braces, or certain aids to compensate for blindness, low vision, verbal or written communication difficulties or deafness.

As of October 1, up to 75 per cent of the cost to purchase an approved device is available from the ministry. Prior to this change, assistance was only given to those aged 26 or under.

For further information contact the Ministry of Health - Assistive Device Program toll-free at 1-800-268-6021.

Applications are available at your nearest Information Centre. In Haliburton, the centre is open Monday - Friday 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. or call 457-2733. The satellite office in Minden is open Monday & Tuesday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or call 286-4100.

If you live outside the toll-free area, please call collect.

Have you considered becoming a volunteer? Contact the Haliburton County Information Centre for details.
